

Does Avis Charge Extra $200? Full 2025 Explanation

Yes, Avis often charges an extra $200 (or more) as a security deposit authorization on your card, added to the rental cost, especially with debit cards or for shorter rentals (like 1–3 days), to cover potential fuel, tolls, damage, or extra days, though it's a hold that gets released later +1-877-684-4354 This $200 is usually an authorization hold (plus rental fees) placed on your credit/debit card, not an upfront charge, but it reduces your available funds until you return the car +1-877-684-4354

Why Does Avis Charge the Extra $200?

Avis adds this $200 authorization hold to protect against:

- Fuel shortages
- Extra rental days
- Unpaid tolls
- Cleaning fees
- Minor damage fees +1-877-684-4354

This isn't an additional fee you lose — it's a temporary hold that gets released once the rental closes with no issues +1-877-684-4354

Is the $200 Charge Refundable?

Yes, the $200 hold is fully refundable as long as the vehicle is returned on time, clean, and undamaged +1-877-684-4354

Depending on your bank, the refund usually appears within 2–10 days after drop-off +1-877-684-4354

Does Everyone Get the $200 Hold?

The exact amount varies, but most renters will see a deposit of $200–$300 on credit card rentals +1-877-684-4354

Debit card users may see higher holds, sometimes $300–$500, depending on the location and rental type +1-877-684-4354

Why Does Avis Hold More for Debit Cards?

Debit cards carry higher risk for the rental company, so Avis increases the hold amount to avoid potential losses from delayed returns or unpaid balances +1-877-684-4354

This larger hold is standard across most rental companies, not just Avis +1-877-684-4354

How Long Does the Extra $200 Stay on the Card?

For most customers:

- Credit cards: 2–5 business days
- Debit cards: 5–10 business days
- Some banks: up to 14 days during holidays or weekends +1-877-684-4354

The hold disappears automatically once processed by your bank +1-877-684-4354

: Does Avis Charge Extra $200?

Yes — Avis commonly applies an extra $200 authorization hold, which is temporary and refunded once the car is returned without issues +1-877-684-4354

This amount is not an additional fee but a standard rental car deposit that ensures coverage for any potential costs during your rental period +1-877-684-4354
